

DEATH FOLLOWS AN OPERATION

Morris, son of Jacob Weinstein and a member of the firm of Jacob Weinstein & Sons, died suddenly at his home, 35 Wallace street, at 1:45 this morning. At four o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Weinstein submitted to a surgical operation. He recovered from the anæsthetic and was able to communicate with his friends during the evening. Later he began to fail rapidly. Two years ago the deceased submitted to an operation for appendicitis. The appendix was removed at that time but he never recovered his health. Another operation was decided upon a month ago and it took place yesterday morning at the residence of a specialist from New York. He was called to the operation. It was a difficult one but it was believed to be successful until just before the end. The deceased, who was 28 years old, leaves a wife and two children. He was a member of several organizations. The funeral took place this afternoon from his late residence, 35 Wallace street.

"Fighting Bob"

Turret Disasters!

The best instalment yet of Admiral Evans' now world-famous series. A horse-sense talk to the American people about their navy. Full of accurate information, color, vividness and patriotism.

"The best magazine feature of the New Year," says one authority. If you are an American, you ought to read this series—and, unlike most of the things you ought to do, this will be a real pleasure.

HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE

March—on sale now

More Americanism—Read Rex Beach's new serial, "The Silver Horde"—better than "The Spoilers."

One hundred per cent. readable. No sawdust. No padding. Among other great features in this new magazine that 200,000 people declare the best in America are:

An Amazing Article on "Psychic Research"—Vance Thompson's contribution, "On the Trail of the Ghost" propounds a remarkable theory of psychic phenomena.

A Conscience-Arousing Fact-Story of "Night Riding"—The shameful details in the case of the Black Patch tobacco war. Worse than the Guerrilla raids of the Civil War.

Do you want to go to East Africa with Roosevelt? The Boer ivory hunter, Capt. Fritz Duquesne, whose great article in February Hampton's is being widely imitated by other magazines, has another piece in March. Captain Duquesne's articles will give you all the excitement and thrill of Roosevelt's trip, with none of the discomfort.

An Honest Man's Work in the Senate—A character sketch of La Follette, "Political Evangelist."

Wall Street and the Banks.—Telling how your money gets into the great gambling game.

Rex Beach's Newest Serial—"The Silver Horde"—and is better all the way round than Rex Beach's best. Short stories by Josephine Daskam Bacon, Mary R. S. Andrews, Charles Battell Loomis and others.

An Easy Grade.
Patronage, political, religious and social, has seen its best days in England, and it is becoming more and more difficult. St. James' Budget opines, to find material for such a story as follows:

At the end of a political campaign many years ago a young man who had worked valiantly for the successful candidate claimed a reward. The prize promised was a sergeantcy in the artillery. But the candidate found that he was unable to carry out his promise, inasmuch as it required six years' service to qualify a man for the rank. He became thoughtful, but finally saw light.

"Does it require six years to qualify a man for a lieutenantcy?" he asked one who knew.

"Certainly not," was the reply.

"Well, make young Blank a lieutenant, then," said the candidate, with a sigh of relief.

Blank was thus made a lieutenant for no other reason than that he was not fit to be a sergeant.

They Knew the Pole.
Some years ago when Dr. Nansen visited Leeds on his return from the polar regions he was welcomed by a large crowd of spectators, who cheered vociferously. Two of the most ardent admirers of Nansen were a couple of old men, who kept shouting and waving their sticks. When the celebrated explorer had passed, immediately following in the wake of the carriage came a wagon dragged by three horses, bearing a long iron pole, which belonged to the electric tramways company.

Directly the old men saw it the following conversation took place:

"Well, I'll be blowed! Sittha, Bill, he's brou't the pole back w' him!" said one.

"Aye," said the other admirer of Nansen, "and we t' only two 'at's noticed it. The're all running after t' carriage. Sittha, the're that ignorant they can't tell t' pole when they see it!"

A Bernard Shaw Joke.

After addressing an Edinburgh meeting for ninety minutes once Mr. Bernard Shaw remarked that the time was a quarter to 10, and he had intended to finish at 9 o'clock. He did not seem in the least fatigued; the audience were also quite fresh, and when the speaker was about to sit down loud cries of "Go on!" were raised on all sides.

"Do you really wish me to go on?" Mr. Shaw asked. He was answered by renewed cheering and more shouts of "Go on!"

Great was the disappointment, therefore, when he replied, "That is the exact point at which an experienced speaker sits down," which he accordingly did.

An Artist's Mustache.

The mustache was not viewed with favor in England in the middle of the last century. An anecdote is told of the late Thomas Cooper, the English artist, to illustrate. He was brought before a magistrate in 1846 on some minor charge and was described in the police report as being "fashionably dressed, with large mustaches." The Art Journal of the date, commenting on it, said that "no member of the Royal academy perpetrates the atrocity of mustaches, a most un-English affectation." Mr. Cooper became a member of the academy a few years later.

Sunshine and Long Life.

Some towns on the Italian side of the Swiss Alps are noted for the great number of sunny days. Carnabietta and Pentilino, near Lugano, head the list with 327 and 331 sunny days respectively in one year. Possibly because of this liberal amount of sunshine the percentage of old people is exceptionally high in the canton of Tessin, forty-four per thousand being over seventy years old and ten per thousand over eighty.—New York Post.

Discourteous.

"What do you think?" exclaimed the theatrical star proudly. "They are going to name a new cigar after me!" "Well," rejoined the manager, "here's hoping it will draw better than you do."—Exchange.

Force of Habit.

Kilky—I did a very abominable thing this morning. Street—What was it? Kilky—Offered a tip to the man who shaved my nose.—Boston Transcript.

When a true genius appears 'n the world you may know him by this sign: that the dunces are all in confederacy against him.—Swift.

As is usual at this season of the year, we clean up all of our winter stock and this Inauguration Sale is the announcement of that semi-annual clearing. Our regular customers and those who have patronized these sales before, know what to expect. They know that the regular Holbrook & McNamara value is to be obtained at a third and a quarter off the regular selling price. It is to those who are not familiar with our method of doing business that this ad is addressed. The figures given below might lead a person who is not acquainted with us to believe that cheap and inferior quality was all that could be expected at these prices. We reiterate again that every shoe is from our regular stock, the very same shoes that hundreds of people have been glad to pay regular prices for. It is simply that we are cleaning up every pair of heavy weight shoes for men, women and children preparatory to the influx of spring and summer goods which will soon be here. This has been Holbrook & McNamara's custom for years and the wise and thrifty have learned to anticipate this event and withhold their buying until prices were slashed. If you have never been to one of Holbrook & McNamara's sales, come to this one and then you will know the real meaning of the word "bargain." Come at once, however, before the best sizes and most desirable styles and patterns have been snapped up. Come tomorrow if you can and as early in the day as possible.
